SABLE CONSERVATION PROJECT

SAVE THE SABLE ANTELOPE

FROM EXTINCTION IN ZIMBABWE

The Sable Antelope, a rare and highly selective feeder, is teetering on the brink of extinction in Zimbabwe. Although they once flourished in the country, their numbers have drastically declined over the past few decades.

The primary culprits are habitat fragmentation and the relentless predation by lions.

WE NEED HELP

We need to raise $7,300 towards building these bomas to comfortably home our breeding population

WE HAVE A PLAN

Breed, Protect, and Release

Our strategy involves breeding them to a sustainable number in carefully managed bomas. These semi-controlled enclosures will allow for easy, safe releases into their natural habitat.

ANY & EVERY CENT MATTERS!

If you are able to assist, we'd so appreciate your contribution.

Together we can save this species from disappearing from Zimbabwe's natural landscapes...
